When I travel to another country, I always try to learn the language so I can with local people. I don't just study words and grammar, but too, so people can understand me. However, this isn't always possible, especially if you're just going somewhere for a short holiday. It's amazing how much you can express with gestures and expressions. Looking somebody in the and your eyebrows is important because it shows you're paying attention to what they're saying. If you don't understand someone, stay calm and don't raise your – there are better ways to show you don't understand. One is to simply your shoulders in a friendly way and smile. Be careful with some gestures though as they can mean different things around the world. If you your head in Bulgaria, it actually means 'yes'. And in some countries it's rude to point a at other people.
