Children surf the Internet and can't concentrate on other things.

It entertains.

Children watch different sites late at night and don't get enough sleep.

It helps us see faraway places.

It's easier to watch videos than read books. So children read less.

Children can learn more about the world.

You can meet famous and interesting people.

People don't talk at home but surf the Internet.

It helps us be more tolerant because we learn how people are different in different places.

The Internet keeps children company so they learn how to be on their own.
