Never! I can not do that. Let me tell you a story. Last Friday, I met a boy at the luxury car show. He was tall, slim and handsome with his big black eyes, stylish hair, attractive voice, pretty face and athletic body. I gave my phone number to him not because he was super cool and handsome, but because I knew he has a great personality and heart. (Yaww he he. Ne kadar çok kalp hastası varmış :))

I have more friends than anyone else on this world, but I can never meet them, because I'm too busy. I hate spending time or money for my friends, but they are all know I'm generous. I spend 10 hours a day on Instagram, but I don't like social media. I'm not stubborn person. When someone tries to change my mind or decisions, I try to change theirs, and finally they do what I say. I'm overweight, but I don't need to go on a diet or train at the gym. Also, I'm not a forgetful person. I always remember the, remember the, the :)

The answer is so simple: I'm happy when I spend time with them. Do you know why? Because we care for and respect each other. By the way, I don't think we should have similar hobbies or interests with our friends. For example, Appcan is my best friend and he is interested in watching movies at home, but I enjoy doing outdoor activities. Anyway, we always have fun together.

Having beautiful, attractive, handsome, cute or good-looking people in my life is great, but that is not enough for me to be happy. If someone is beautiful but selfish, I don't want him/her in my life. If someone is handsome but stupid, I run away from him. If someone has a nice smile but tells lies to me, I hate that. I mean having a strong character is better than having a cute face or body.
