Margot had been practicing the drums for over a year. She got her first drumset on her 7th birthday and has practiced every afternoon since. Margot got together with two other friends to form a band, which they called "The Fun Times."

The other members of The Fun Times were Melissa and Aria. Melissa played the guitar and Aria played the bass. Together, the three girls made great music. When they first started playing together it was tricky to play music at the same time, but they got better and better as they practiced.

After a lot of practice, The Fun Times decided to hold their first concert. They invited all their friends and family to Aria's garage. The people piled into the garage and the girls started to play. The crowd went wild! Everyone had such a fun time.
