Task 3. Complete the email with the adjectives from the unit.

Dear Editor,

It's shocking how the elderly can sometimes be completely abandoned, especially when they live in a big city. A recent apartment fire has brought this issue to the media's attention. Harriet Fallow, a ninety-year-old with no family, couldn't pay her electricity bill, so the supply was <sup>1</sup> _____. The fire started because she used a candle to light her room.

We can find many other cases of elderly people living in <sup>2</sup> _____ accommodation, with no washing facilities and <sup>3</sup> _____ equipment that is old and dangerous to use. Basic services such as power are <sup>4</sup> _____, so these people, who have little income, can't afford the minimum comfort such as heating or decent food. The case of Harriet just shows how <sup>5</sup> _____ government reports are when they claim everyone has access to a reasonable standard of living. In fact, recent surveys have shown that the extent of the problem has been <sup>6</sup> _____ and is more common than was previously thought. It is <sup>7</sup> _____ that these people are refused access to essential services.

Yours,

R. Smith
