

Read and complete.

My name's John and I am a plumber. It can be a difficult job when the weather's bad but I still like it. Well, yesterday I went to repair tap in a house for a woman called Mrs White but when I got to the house there was her son there, and he had no idea. I decided to start repairing anyway. Because I had just two hours to finish it. At about midday I stopped for lunch and went to a cafe round the corner. I asked for fish and chips. That's my favourite meal. But there wasn't any more fish, so I ate pasta instead. Well, I was eating my food when a woman phoned me. She said, 'Where are you?' and I answered, 'I'm having my lunch!' I was surprised because she was very unfriendly. At two o'clock I went back to the house, and greeted Mrs White, she looked very angry so I said 'what's the matter?' Her answer made me feel terrible. She said "I paid a plumber and the kitchen's tap is still dripping. "The kitchen's??? I asked really surprised, I repaired the bathroom's tap this morning!

1. When Bill arrived at the house was at home.

2. John wanted to start work because there were only to do the job.

3. John ate for lunch.

4. John thought the woman sounded on the telephone.

5. John felt when the woman in the garden answered his question.

6. The woman was waiting for someone to

7. John suddenly understood that he repaired the wrong