

TELEPHONE CONVERSATION BETWEEN TWO FRIENDS:

Listen to the recording and type in the missing phrasal verbs.

JANE: Hi Anne, it's Jane.

A N N E : Hello, it's been ages since I last heard from you. How are you?

JANE: Not too well, actually. I've had the flu for about a month. I miss my mum; she's always ill.

ANNE: Hadn't you better call the doctor?

JANE: I'm rather reluctant to do that, and anyway there's no point. He can't help me.

ANN : Yes, but you may as well see him. You could go on your day off.

JANE: I suppose so. I don't think I could another month like the last one. I think you are much better at handling illness than I am... Anyway, what's been in your life?

ANNIE: I've just found a new flat. Actually, it's in a very posh street.

JANE: 'I bet it's lovely.'

A N N E : Well, you know how choosy I am and I'm much better off than I was a few years ago so I can afford to live in such an area. You'll have to when I've got the place.

JANE: I'd love to. Incidentally, did your cat ? I everyone at work but no-one had seen it.

A N N E : Oh yes. He soon came back. He missed being made a fuss of and was fed up having to survive on stale food.

JANE: What a relief for the books! I thought he was gone forever.... I'm just going to turn on the television... a second!
