The national park is in the grasslands, close to the city. It's faster to get there by train than by bus. Remember to bring your camera. You can take pictures of the wild animals, like the lions and the hippos. They are friendlier than the rhinos. The rhinos like to stay alone under the trees. If you like tigers and snow leopards, then you will be happy. We've got some at the national park. We protect them because they are both endangered. There are only about four to five thousand snow leopards and fewer tigers left in the wild today. They are both amazing animals. They are very beautiful and intelligent, although scientists now believe that tigers are more intelligent than snow leopards. And you can also meet our lovely orangutans. They're more exciting than any other animal we've got here.
