Responsibility at school

Student life is the happiest and the most crucial period in the life of a person. It is not just about attending classes in a course and working hard to learn the content of a subject under the guidance of a teacher. Student life is a stage in which a person acquires the values of hard work for better grades, discipline, punctuality, teamwork, unity, and all that will help him or her become a successful and good human being. It is a period of time that shapes an individual and prepares adolescents to face the future challenges of life with courage and strength.

As learners, students play a crucial and active role in education. They involve and interact with other students and teachers, participate in classroom discussions, and act in a receptive manner. They collect materials for learning and assignments, check on their study times, put back materials at their respective places after using them, and more. Developing excellent communication skills, being friendly and polite, and making practical applications of what they learn are some of the major roles that students play as learners in education.

School is the second home for a student. Students spend a significant portion of their lives in schools learning different things apart from what parents teach them at home. To ensure that they remain safe and healthy, they have specific rights.
