Death Anniversary of King Hung is celebrated nationwide as one of the most important festivals among the Vietnamese. This festival is widely celebrated on the 10th of the third lunar month. Despite its name, the festival does not commemorate the death of the King. Instead, it reminds the Vietnamese of their ancestry and the establishment of the nation. The festival started as a regional one of Phu Tho Province. In 2007, a law was brought in, recognizing it as a national public holiday. The festival lasts from the 8th to the 11th, with the main ceremonies on the 10th. A procession is held, starting at the foot of the sacred mountain and stopping at every small temple on the way up to the High Temple. Thousands of pilgrims gather in this venue to say their prayers and offer incense to the national ancestors. Besides the solemn ceremonies, various traditional fairs and contests are held with games like singing, wrestling, or swimming.
