Alien's Blog

The other day I stopped in front of the door of a very high building, which looked very old. Suddenly, well dressed people started to arrive and enter the building. Everyone got really excited when a car arrived and a smartly dressed man got out. The man went into the building and stood and waited. After about half an hour a white car arrived.

It was full of flowers. A woman in a very big white dress got out. The dress was so big that she needed the help of two children to walk.

She also carried a bunch of flowers and her face was covered with a white veil (фата). When she arrived everyone got very excited and they started to play music inside the building.

The woman went into the building holding the arm of a man who was in the car with her.

After a while the woman came out again, but this time she was holding the arm of the other man. They were happy and when they left the building everyone threw rice at them.

I think she was going to be cooked...
