Zachary Carson, 17, had a terrible weekend. His parents went to visit his grandparents, but he stayed home. He got up early on Saturday and went to the laundry room to do laundry.

He put his clothes in the washing machine. Then he tried to leave the room, but the door was locked! He pushed on the door, but it didn't open. There wasn't a window in the room.

Luckily, Zachary had food to eat. There was a closet in the laundry room with some groceries in it. He also had a place to sleep. He put some clothes from the laundry on the floor and slept on them.

His parents came home Sunday morning and found Zachary in the laundry room. "We called Zach late Saturday night, but he didn't answer the phone," said his father, "so we came home early. We're just happy he's all right."
