As you do the test, the assessor focuses on these areas of your English:

Are you using a good range of grammatical structures? Are you using these structures correctly?

Are you using a good range of vocabulary? Are you using vocabulary which is appropriate for the topics you are talking about? Are you using it correctly? Are you showing that you can use suitable vocabulary to talk about topics which are unfamiliar to you, as well as topics which you are more used to talking about?

Are you using both long and short answers, depending on the task? Is everything you say relevant to the topic of discussion? Are your ideas expressed in clear and well-organised language? Are you using a range of language to link and organise your ideas? Are you able to speak fluently, without too much hesitation?

You don't need to have an English accent, but it is important to be clear. Are you pronouncing individual sounds correctly? Are you placing stress on the right parts of words and on the right words in sentences? Does your voice go up and down at the right times? Does your pronunciation help you to communicate what you mean?

Are you able to interact with the other candidate easily and effectively? Are you listening to the other candidate and answering in a way that makes sense? Are you able to start a discussion and help manage the discussion so that you and your partner keep it going? Can you think of new ideas to add to the discussion?

The interlocutor focuses on your

This is about your general performance. How well are you speaking about the topics you are given? Are your answers clear and fluent? Are you using language which is right for the Cambridge English: Advanced level?
