In 1998, a Swiss artist had an idea to have lots of cow sculptures, ..... (paint) by different artists, as an art exhibition. People have _____ (repeat) this in many cities all over the world, and they're _____ (call) the CowParade. The organizers buy a hundred white cow sculptures _____ are _____ (make) of fiberglass. They ask artists _____ live in the city _____ (paint) them. They then put each cow outside in a public place in the city _____ people can see them.

The streets, squares and parks of the city are like an outdoor museum _____ is completely free. After two months, the organisers sell the cows and they give the money to charity. The cows are in three different positions: standing, lying and eating. The most popular is the standing cow _____ is 1.5 meters tall.

The most expensive cow was from the CowParade in Dublin _____ someone bought a cow for 146,000 USD! It was _____ (decorated) with thousands of pieces of beautiful crystal.
