1 CULTURE

Most U.S. and Canadian cities have restaurants that serve food from many different countries and cultures. Chinese, Italian, and Mexican restaurants have been very popular in North America for a long time, but now there are also Japanese, Thai, and Indian restaurants in most cities and small towns. Many people like to order food from restaurants for delivery to their homes. Chinese food and pizza are common home-delivery types of food.

VIDEO TRANSCRIPT

Unit 13: How about a pizza?

Carmen and Luis decide to try something new, in a way.

- Luis: You know, I'm beginning to feel hungry.
Carmen: So am I. I really could eat something.
Luis: How about pizza?
Carmen: Hmm. I'm not sure. I'm not really in the mood for a pizza.
Luis: You know, neither am I.
Carmen: OK. Let's look for something else. But I want to eat. Soon!
Luis: No problem. I do, too.
Carmen: I like Japanese food a lot.
Luis: So do I, but ...
Carmen: We could get some sushi.
Luis: Yeah, I'm just not sure that's what I want.
Carmen: But Luis, I'm hungry.
Luis: So am I. I'm just not sure about sushi.
Carmen: Where do you want to go?
Luis: Well, there's a Mexican restaurant across the street. You know I love Mexican food.
Carmen: So do I, but ...
Luis: But?
Carmen: I just really wanted to try something different.
Luis: OK. Come on, let's go.
Carmen: Hey, a Thai restaurant.
Luis: I've never had Thai food.
Carmen: Neither have I.
Carmen: (reading the menu) Seafood curry, prawns in coconut milk, ... (to Luis) Mm, sounds good!
Luis: (reading the menu) Stir-fried chicken with ginger, green curry, ...

- Carmen: I think that's really spicy.
Luis: That's OK. I like spicy food.
Carmen: Me, too.
Luis: Let's try it.

- Waiter: Welcome. Do you have any questions about the menu?
Carmen: Yes. How is this dish: prawns in coconut milk?
Waiter: Oh, it's very good. It's one of our most popular dishes.
Luis: What about the green curry?
Waiter: That's very spicy.
Luis: That's fine. I like spicy food.
Waiter: Do you need a little more time to decide? I can get you your drinks while you read the menu.
Carmen: OK. I'd like ginger and honey tea.
Luis: And I'll have a jasmine smoothie.
Waiter: OK. I'll be right back with your drinks.
Luis: Hey, Carmen. Look at that.
Carmen: Wow. What is that?
Luis: I don't know, but it looks so good. Let's ask.
Waiter: Here we are: one ginger-and-honey tea and one jasmine smoothie. Have you guys decided?
Luis: Can you tell me what that is?
Waiter: That is our special: Thai pizza. We put grilled prawns and scallions on a thin layer of pizza dough. It is delicious.
Carmen: Hey, Luis. How about a ...
Luis: ... pizza? (to waiter) We'll have the Thai pizza, please.
