

The Gift

IdentificationDescription

Last week, my father gave me a gift. He bought the gift at a bookshop, somewhere in Bogor. He said he forgot my birthday. So, he bought it for me as an apology. I was surprised with his gift. So I told him that I have given him forgiveness because he brought me a birthday gift.

It is a visual dictionary. The visual dictionary is quite heavy. No wonder, it has a hard cover besides it has so many pages. It is really thick. There are so many explanations about English words in it because there are many chapters. There are chapters about the human body, animals, plants, colors, and even about the solar system. There are also explanations about human body parts and their function, vehicles, and even microorganisms like bacteria. My mother said I should not bring it to school. She knew that I wanted to show off. It was the greatest gift ever in my elementary school life. I love that visual dictionary so much until now. Well, it is already old. So I keep it carefully in my father's book shelf.
