IV. Reading

Jessica Bains is fourteen years old. She usually goes shopping with her friends on a Saturday morning, but she isn't chatting with her friends today! She is sitting in a comfortable chair in a very big library with forty-nine other teenagers, and they are all reading their e-books. Jessica is taking part in a competition called 'How many books can you read in a day?' The winner gets a fantastic prize – a new e-book!

Jessica says: 'It's World Book Day today. I love books and I like reading with lots of other teenagers. My e-book is great because I have 500 books on it. I don't usually have much time to read, because I'm always texting my friends or surfing the Internet. Usually teenagers can't live without Instagram or their mobile phones for a whole day. We all love World Book Day, though!'

How long is Jessica going to read for? She says: 'At three o'clock we are all going to have a break. We're going for pizza and we're going to talk about our favourite books! Then we're coming back to the library to read some more!'
