

Put the sentences in order by writing the number on the box. I did the first one for you.

___ The guard didn't come, and Jamie couldn't relax until after he felt that final ping. And the lights stayed on, stayed on.

___ They always checked for dust under the bed first. A dustless floor meant that it had been cleaned very recently, and they stood less chance of being caught by a mop.

___ Authorities at the museum were moving Angel. Jamie tried to warn Claudia telepathically.

___ Jamie entered the men's room. After the first day, they had learned that the staff worked from nine A.M. until five P.M., a work schedule just like their father's. Routine, routine.

1 Jamie said, "Oh, well, bottoms up." He took a big bite of the candy

___ Then he heard the door open. He heard the voices of two men talking over the sound of water running in the sink.
