The sun was glaring at us from the zenith. It was hot as hell and it was time for lunch. Today, my family and I are going to a posh 1. _____ to have lunch. It is my Father's favourite place to eat. The restaurant serves Mexcian 2. _____. However, it is 3. _____ of tea as I feel it is too spicy for me. As we entered the restaurant, I noticed it was packed like sardines. Luckily, there was a table available for us as my Father had reserved it hours earlier. I was feeling 4. _____ as the 5. _____ of sizzling burritos and quesadillas wafted into my nostrils. Though, Mexican food isn't my cup of tea, I love tucking into burritos. It is a bread rolled and filled with delicious ingredients. The 6. _____ dressed in white shirt and black pants passed us the 7. _____. It was filled with names and prices of the food they offered. I was curious to try the cheese quesadilla and placed my order with the waiter. Within 15 minutes, the waiter walked towards juggling delicious plates of sizzling Mexcian food. I felt like I could eat like a horse and immediately tucked into the food. I was surprised that quesadilla tasted like a dish fit for the gods. I guess I finally found my cup of tea.
