(A) Old Bob is Nelly's neighbor. When Nelly was very small, he would take her for a walk every day in her stroller. When the sprinkler was on, he would say, "Ready, set, GOOOOO!" Nelly would shout "Wheeeee!" as he pushed her through it. The neighbors called them "ham and eggs" because they were always together.

(B) One day when the sprinkler was on, Nelly said to Bob, "All right, Bob. Ready, set, GOOOOO!" And she pushed him right through it! "Ah ... that was fun!" said Bob. Nelly smiled. "Now it's my turn to push and your turn to sit ... kind of like a trade." Nelly could see the old smile was back in Bob's eyes.

(C) When Bob came home, he was in a wheelchair. The smile was gone from his eyes. "I think our walks are over," he said. "No, they aren't," said Nelly. "I can take you for walks now."

(D) Before long, Nelly was in school and Bob was getting older. One day, Bob went out alone and fell down the stairs. He had to stay in hospital for a long time. Nelly wrote to him every day. She always ended with, "Come back soon, so we can go for walks again."
