

HAVE TO / HAS TO

1. Read the text. Complete the sentence with the right information.

Kids vs Parents

Daniel

I have to do household chores at home. I have to clean the table after breakfast every day. On weekends, I have to clean the bathroom and do the dishes. These are the things that I hate the most in life. My mom says that my bedroom is a mess. I don't think that it's really messy. OK, there are some clothes on the floor but it's my room, so, Mom doesn't have to look at it if it bothers her. My brother David doesn't have to do so much at home. He always helps Dad to wash his car and water the plants, but it's easy. I have to remind him to do the laundry, but he puts the clothes on the laundry and runs back to the TV. I am really upset about that.

Daniel's mom

I'm Daniel and David's mom. I work all day in an office, so, I want my kids to help me at home by doing some household chores. I ask my son Daniel to help me with the chores, but I always have to ask him three times. He often pretends not to hear me. His bedroom is a mess; all his papers are on the floor. There is dirty laundry, food, used dishes, and sneakers all over the room. Daniel complains about his brother David. David is still a child; he does small chores. I worry about Daniel; he has to learn how to help out with the household chores. He is 15 years old and I worry about how he is going to be when he gets older.

- Daniel _____ household chores every day.
- He _____ to clean the _____ after break fast.
- He _____ to _____ the bathroom and _____ on _____.
- David _____ have to _____ so much at _____.
- Daniel _____ remind David to _____.
- Daniel's mom always _____ ask him _____.
- Daniel _____ learn how to _____ with the _____.

2. Read and answer the questions.

a. Does Daniel have to cook the lunch?

c. Does Daniel have to do the dishes on weekends?

b. Do Daniel and David have to wash the car?

d. Does David have to do the laundry?
