

Well, I was in a rush that morning and I suppose I _____(set off) a bit late. It _____(rain)when I _____(leave) the house and there _____(be) a lot of traffic on the roads. I _____(get) to the airport just before the desk(close).

When I.....(board) the plane, all the other passengers.....(wait) for me. It(be) a bit embarrassing, but we(take off) OK. I(have) a seat in the middle of the plane and for the first couple of hours it was fine.

So I(read) my book when one of the flight attendants(come over) and.....(speak) to me. She(say) there(be) something wrong with her seat and that she(need) to take mine. I was the last passenger to check in, so they(choose) me.

I(ask) the flight attendant where I should sit and she(tell) me that the only place was the toilet. At first, I(think) it was a joke, but then I(realise) that she was serious.

So I(sit) on the toilet when the turbulence(start) . It was quite frightening because of course there was no seatbelt on the toilet. I almost(fall off) a few times. After the turbulence(stop),

I(open) the door. About five passengers(wait) outside the toilet to use the toilet. I just(close) the door again.

And then to top it all, when we(land) at Istanbul there(be) a delay of an hour before we(can) get off the plane because of the problem in the airport.

I still can't believe they told me to stay in the toilet for two hours. It was terrible. You just can't treat customers like that.
