

1- Match the uses to the right sentences.

The following exercise is an example of adding emphasis to opinions to make them stronger.

I do think some of the stories told about them are in fact exaggerated.

Women certainly did suffer for the sake of fashion.

Am I glad to see you!!!

That really did happen!!

We definitely do keep coming back to certain fashions.

Have I got a big surprise to meet you!!!

The use of the adverbs and auxiliaries.

The use of the inversion.

The use of the auxiliary.

2- Add emphasis to the underlined sentences.

a) I really love you!! I really do. (emphatic do)

b) He likes his sister very much. When she has problems, he's always ready to help her out. (emphatic do)

c) You cook the best brownies in the world! I wish you made them more often! (really + auxiliary)

d) The office staff said my fax was late, but I sent it on time. (emphatic did)

e) She is a great friend!! I completely trust in her. (inversion)

f) I haven't seen such a beautiful dog!! (inversion)

g) We ran into our old friend from school. She looked so attractive!!
(auxiliary + inversion)