Read carefully:

Was and were are the past simple forms of the verb be. We use the past simple of be with adjectives to describe feelings in the past.

Today (Tuesday)

I am hot.

Jamie is tired.

Mum and Dad are tired.

Yesterday (Monday)

I was cold.

Jamie was happy.

Mum and Dad were happy.

We also use the past simple of be to identify someone or something in the past, to talk about the location of someone or something in the past and to talk about the time and the weather in the past.
