Deputies gathered in the Chilean Congress in the coastal city of Valparaiso cheered and sang the national anthem after the result was announced on Wednesday. The vote was 95-36, with 22 abstentions. The bill was backed by 13 members of Piñera's ruling coalition.

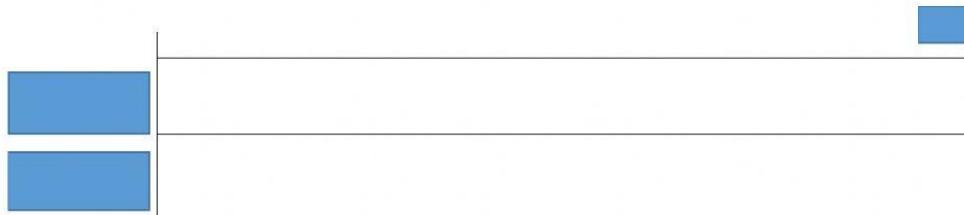

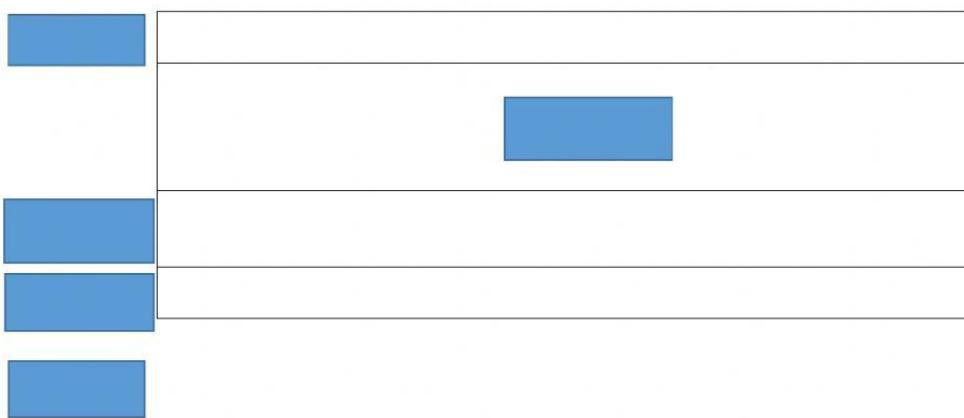

Finance Minister Ignacio Briones walked out of the chamber as the voting took place. Interior Minister Gonzalo Blumel said afterwards he hoped the Senate would "correct this mistake."

"Our government has developed a strengthened plan to protect the middle class ... that requires an enormous fiscal effort," Piñera said during the announcement.

AFPs – Chile's lower house approves withdrawal from pensions

SANTIAGO – Lawmakers in Chile's lower house have approved a bill to allow citizens to withdraw up to 10% from private pension funds, dealing a blow to President Sebastian Pinera's government.
