

HUNTER-GATHERER SOCIETIES

Hunter-Gatherer societies existed for 8.000 years.

The most important activities were hunting and gathering fruits.

They lived in bands from 10 to 50 people.

They settled their camps every time they moved to a new place.

They had two types of housing, tents and caves.

They used basic tools like: stones, fire and wood sticks.

They made their clothes and tents with animals' fur.

Read the paragraph and look at the picture carefully.

Answer the following questions.

1. What type of housing can you see in the picture?

Their housing are:

caves

tents

trees

rocks

2. What tools can you see in the picture?

They are using:

stones

fire

tents

trees

3. How many people lived in this band?

10

20

15

25

4. Can you see gathering activities in the picture?

Yes

No

5. Do you think it was easy to live in that way? Write your opinion in 2 lines.
