Task 2 – Reading: a Webcomic (part 1). This is a comic based on an essay comparing two dystopias: 1984, by George Orwell, and Brave New World, by Aldous Huxley. Read it carefully. This is authentic English: it has not been adapted for learners. That means it contains some difficult words. Please help one another understand the text. This is the first part of two. There are two activities on the next page.

AMUSING OURSELVES TO DEATH by Stuart McMillen May 2009

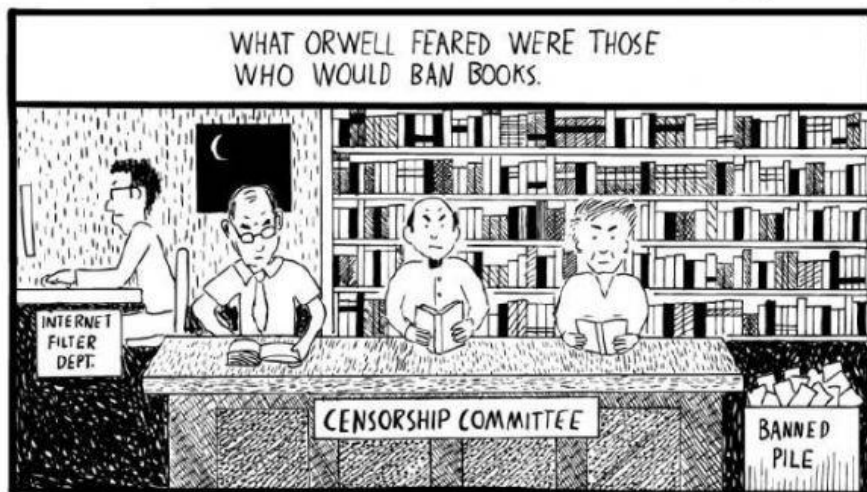

ALDOUS HUXLEY

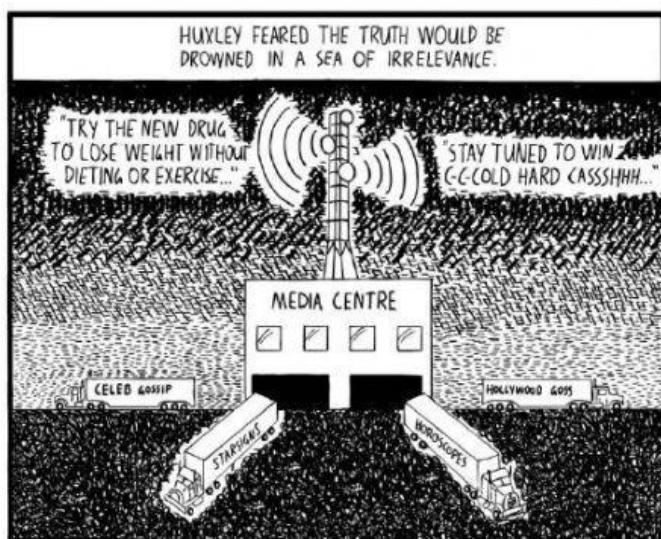

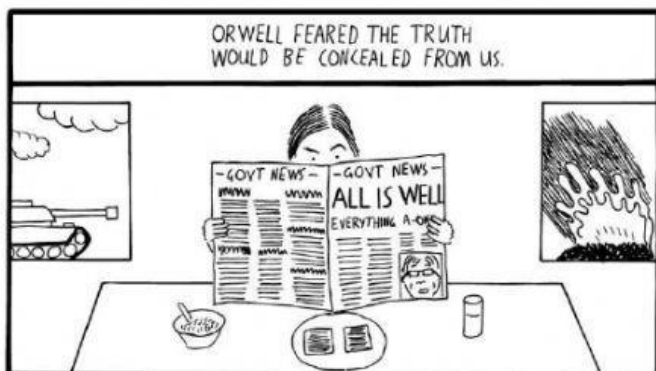

Author: "Brave New World"

GEORGE ORWELL

Author: "Nineteen Eighty-Four"

Task 3 - Read the webcomic again and mark these sentences TRUE or FALSE.

1-In 1984, the authorities decide what books people can and cannot read. _____

2-In Brave New World, people are interested in reading books. _____

3-Orwell was afraid that people would have excessive information. _____

4-In Brave New World, people receive so much information that they become passive and they don't care about things. _____

5-In 1984, the government doesn't tell you the truth, but in Brave New World, the truth is difficult to see because there is excessive information. _____

Task 4 – Vocabulary. Match the words from the comic on the left to the definitions on the right.
