

17 Written questions

1. Pressing and releasing the right mouse button quickly

2. an electronic visual display for computers

3. picture that represents a command, program, or document

4. hardware that stores software and electronic files

5. a device that communicates with the computer by clicks.

6. The buttons on the keyboard use to communicate with the computer

7. A computer input device that uses a set of keys to put data into the computer.

8. holding down the left mouse button while moving the mouse/cursor

9. A device that produces a paper or hard copy of the processing results.

10. Pressing the left mouse button twice in rapid succession

11. A picture or design on your desktop for decoration.

12. enable the user to input data and commands into the computer

13. a computer that is connect to all other computers and gives commands

14. Devices that enable the computer to give the user the results of the processed data.

15. the brain of the computer

16. Hard Disk Drive that holds documents and My Documents

17. the button in the middle of the mouse that helps to move the cursor up and down the screen

