SECTION I (READING COMPREHENSION)

(Q.NO 1 – 7) Read the following passage from lesson “What is Man without the Beasts”.

Even the white man, whose God walks and talks with him as a friend to a friend, cannot be exempt from the common destiny. We may be brothers after all. We shall see. One thing we know, which the white man may one day discover - our God is the same God. You may think now that you own Him as you wish to own our land, but you cannot. He is the God of man, and His compassion is equal for the red man and the white. The Earth is precious to Him, and to harm the Earth is to heap contempt on its Creator. The whites too shall pass, perhaps sooner than all other tribes.

But in your perishing you will shine brightly, fired by the strength of the God who brought you to this land and for some special purpose gave you dominion over this land and over the red man. The destiny is a mystery to us, for we do not understand when the buffalos are slaughtered, the wild horses tamed, the secret corners of the forest heavy with the scent of many men, and the view of the ripe hills blotted by talking wires. Where is the thicket? Gone. Where is the eagle? Gone. The end of living and the beginning of survival."

(Q No. 8 – 12) Read the following passage from "Can't Climb Trees Anymore".

He stood on the grass verge by the side of the road and looked over the garden wall at the old house. It hadn't changed much. The old house built with solid blocks of granite wasn't altered at all. But there was a new outhouse, and there were fewer trees. He was glad to see that the jackfruit tree still stood at the side of the building casting its shade on the wall. He remembered his grandmother saying: 'A blessing rests on the house where the shadow of a tree falls.' And so, the present owners must also be receiving the tree's blessings. At the spot where he stood there had once been a turnstile, and as a boy he would swing on it, going round and round until he was quite dizzy. Now the turnstile had gone, the opening walled up. Tall hollyhocks grew on the other side of the wall.

'What are you looking at?'

It was a disembodied voice at first. Moments later a girl stood framed between dark red hollyhocks staring at the man. She was only twelve or thirteen, slim and dark, with lively eyes and long black hair.

'I'm looking at the house,' he said.

Now, answer the following questions. Each question has four choices. Choose the correct answer.

HOME ASSIGNMENT
CREATIVE WRITING (DISCOURSES)

Imagine that you are the President of the Green Club in your school. Most of the people are using plastic bags and causing damage to environment. You wanted them to use paper or cloth bags. With the help of local Self-help group people, you wanted to arrange a programme on how to prepare eco-friendly bags for the students of your school.

Now prepare a NOTICE in order to make the students aware of how to prepare eco-friendly bags" in your school to display on the notice board.

You can use the following indicators.

- Heading
- Date and time
- Formal invitation
- Any other programmes.

NOTE:- This question is meant for Home Assignment. The student has to take a photograph of the answer and post it on Whatsapp to the teacher or it can be written in a notebook and submitted to the teacher later.
