- a. Take a piece of chicken and dip it into the batter. Then place it in the flour mixture and cover the chicken with it. Set the coated chicken aside.
- b. Beat the 2 or 3 eggs in a medium-large bowl. Add 2/3 cup milk, whisk to blend.
- c. In a large bowl, mix the soup mix, Italian dressing, black pepper, and flour together.
- d. Remove the pieces from the skillet and drain the grease onto paper towels or a rag.
- e. Finished. Your KFC is ready to serve.
- f. Heat the oil in a large skillet until it shimmers but doesn't smoke—about 350°F (175°C). Leave the pieces in there for about 25 to 30 minutes, turning and flipping occasionally. Add chili peppers for a spicier flavor.
- g. Continue coating each chicken piece until all portions are prepared.
