

Going to  expresses future intentions or plans

USE : Example: 1) I'm going to cook next Friday. 2) Next week, we are going to sing a song.

1) Look for the "going to" sentences in the blog

Eg: "I'm going to have a big party"

Great idea, James – I love your list of adventures! Your blog looks great and I can't wait to read it. When are you going to travel to London? Are you going to post photos of your trip?

25th June
Tomorrow's the big day!
My brother's decorating the house – he's going to fill it with balloons and I'm going to help him. My sister's going to make an enormous chocolate cake. 😊

Happy birthday, James! Have a great day. Sorry, I can't come to your party. 😞

1st July
It's official: I'm a teenager!
The party was fantastic! I want to thank you all for the amazing presents. Now my year of adventures begins... with a trip to London! My aunt lives there and I'm going to visit her. She's going to take me to watch Manchester United play at Wembley!
