

UNIT 1

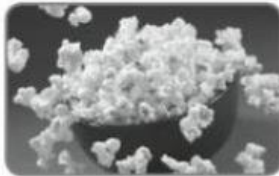

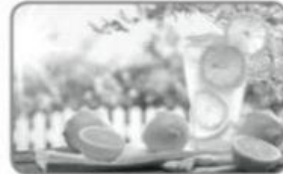

Popcorn and Lemonade

Linguistic

Jack and his best friend Rob were on summer vacation. They went swimming, watched movies, played video games, and even built a tree house with some old wood they found in the backyard. But today, they were bored and looking for something to do. They were wishing for school to start soon.

Jack had an idea: they could make popcorn and lemonade to sell outside. Rob's mom could help them with the lemonade. They made a list of the things they needed and started preparing everything. While Rob was making pitchers of fresh, cold lemonade with his mom, Jack looked for a long table and two chairs. He also took some plastic cups for the drinks and small paper bags for the popcorn. Two hours later, they had everything ready. They were very excited about this idea! They started thinking about what to do with the money.

They put a table in the front yard with a big sign that said "Fresh Lemonade and Popcorn." A lot of people from the neighborhood bought popcorn and lemonade. Mr. Lawrence, a neighbor, asked for cookies. By the end of the day, they made eight dollars total. They split the money in half. They got four dollars each. Then, they knew what to do the following weekend: sell cookies with lemonade.
