There are many reasons why someone might choose to become a vegetarian. Some do so for religious reasons, while others have ethical concerns. Health is another consideration that many vegetarians have. Here are some reasons why someone might want to be a vegetarian because of nutritional concerns, food safety and environmental concerns. First of all, many people believe that a vegetarian diet is healthier than one that includes meat, and many studies have confirmed the benefits of vegetarianism. Vegetarians usually get more beneficial vitamins and nutrients from their regular diet, and less harmful substances such as saturated fat and (1) _____. These factors are thought to reduce the (2) _____ of many diseases and ailments. Secondly, many food safety scares have been publicized over the past few decades, and the majority of these have involved meat. The bacteria E. coli is one of the most dreaded food contamination issues, and it is found (3) _____ in meat. Although there have been cases of other foods being contaminated with E. coli, it is acquired through contact with contaminated meat. Finally, the production of meat and animal products often has adverse (4) _____ on the environment. Factory farms are particularly notorious for their disregard of issues such as pollution and (5) _____. This is one reason that vegetarianism and environmentalism often go hand in hand. In conclusion, vegetarianism is very good for our health and the environment. If you want to live longer and contribute to preserving Earth's natural resources, you should love animals and be ethically opposed to eating them.

Niagara Falls is one of the most spectacular natural wonders of the world. It is located on the Niagara River along the border between two countries: the United States and Canada. Niagara Falls actually consists of three falls. The American Falls lie on the United States side of the border, in the state of New York. The Horseshoe Falls lie mainly on the Canadian side. The Bridal Veil Falls, which are the smallest, are also on the American side. It is estimated that 85% of the water in Niagara River flows over the Horseshoes Falls, which are the most impressive of the three waterfalls.

Each year about 10 million people visit the falls, mainly in the summer tourist season. Visitors can take a boat ride right up to the edge of the falls or view them from the parks on both sides of the river. There are many other attractions for visitors; they can enjoy the wildflowers and trees in the beautiful Botanical Gardens, visit the Niagara Falls Farmers Market or History Museum, or explore the lakes or hiking trails in the area.
