No ID Cards

Britain is one of the places in the world where people ID cards. In the US, we ID cards but you ID when you a drink, go to a club, a credit card or take an intercity train.

10.

Choose the most appropriate underlined word:

Summers

I love British summers! A good summer/warm/read/calls day in Britain is dry and summer/warm/read/calls but not very hot.

Starbucks

Starbucks isn't British, of course, but I prefer the Starbucks in Britain. They are nice friendly places where people summer/warm/read/calls the newspapers and drink good coffee. And the waiters don't write your name on the cups - I feel stupid in America when the waiter summer/warm/read/calls 'Mark, your tall cappuccino with extra chocolate!'
