.....(1) the arrival of photography, the Western imagination of China was based(2) paintings, written travelogues and dispatches from a seemingly far-off land.(3) the 1850s, however, a band of pioneering Western photographers sought to capture the country's landscapes, cities and people, captivating audiences back home and sparking a homegrown photography movement(4) the process. Among them were the Italian Felice Beato, who arrived(5) China in the 1850s to document Anglo-French exploits in the Second Opium War, and Scottish photographer John Thompson, whose journey up the Min River offered people in the West a rare look(6) the country's remote interior.

A third of us plan to spend more(1) independent stores this year than we did(2) 2019, according to a poll commissioned(3) Enterprise Nation, an organisation which supports start-ups. It found younger shoppers are even more determined, with half(4) under-35s planning to shop more at independents. Small scale sellers have been quick to respond(5) these pledges, offering everything from vintage handbags to macrame plant hangers. There are more than 42 million posts tagged #shoplocal(6) Instagram.

Each state conducts(1) its own election, but they all feature the Republican and the Democrat on their ballots. So while there is no technical rule that the election is(2) these two parties, that is effectively the case. The parties pick their nominees during a series of primaries, usually beginning(3) January of the general election year. From there, the timeline is set: all the states conduct their general elections(4) the first Tuesday(5) the first Monday in November. Then, electors - the people who will vote in the Electoral College - are chosen based(6) the victor in the statewide election.
