

The Wolf in the Sheep's Skin

A wolf is walking near a field full of sheep. "I want to eat those sheep," he says. "How can I get near the sheep without making them afraid of me?"

Suddenly, he has an idea. "If I dress in a sheep's skin, then the sheep will think I'm a sheep, too."

The wolf dresses in a sheep's skin and goes into the field. The sheep do not know he is a wolf.

At night, the shepherd puts all of the sheep in their pen. The shepherd does not know that the wolf in the sheep's skin is with them. "Now I can eat as many sheep as I want," says the wolf.

The shepherd wants some meat for his dinner. He does not know that the wolf in the sheep's skin is a wolf. The shepherd thinks he is a sheep. He catches the wolf in the sheep skin and kills him.
