

At a restaurant

Are you ready to order?

|            |                                                                                                             |
|------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Waiter     | Are you ready to <input type="text"/> ?                                                                     |
| Mr Hutton  | Yes, we are.                                                                                                |
| Mrs Hutton | <input type="text"/> a <input type="text"/> with ham, cheese and tomatoes, please.                          |
| Waiter     | And to <input type="text"/> ?                                                                               |
| Mrs Hutton | Mineral <input type="text"/> , please.                                                                      |
| Mr Hutton  | I'd like a pizza <input type="text"/> – with ham, mushrooms and green peppers. And an orange juice, please. |
| Ben        | For <input type="text"/> a pizza with ham, sausage and cheese, please.                                      |
| Waiter     | And <input type="text"/> drink?                                                                             |
| Ben        | A cola, <input type="text"/> .                                                                              |
| Vicky      | And for me a pizza <input type="text"/> mushrooms, <input type="text"/> and sausages, please.               |
| Waiter     | And to drink?                                                                                               |
| Vicky      | An <input type="text"/> juice, please.                                                                      |

|          |
|----------|
| I'd like |
| drink    |
| with     |
| too      |
| pizza    |
| order    |
| to       |
| tomatoes |
| water    |
| apple    |
| me       |
| please   |