For a long time, people used animals for food and for work. Today many of us have animals in our homes as pets and people all over the world love dogs and cats. But there are some other popular pets that you can find surprising. Chinese people like many different animals, but one very popular pet is the goldfish. In China the colour gold means money and people think goldfish are lucky. In Japan, they like rabbits. Many Japanese people do not eat meat and rabbits are vegetarians too! They are gentle animals, but when they are angry or frightened, they get aggressive. Besides, they are also very small, which is important for people who live in small flats. Snakes are very popular in the USA. People do not need to feed them a lot. Some snakes sleep for several months every year and they do not move very much.
