Last Sunday, more than 10.000 athletes ran in the streets of London in a new edition of the London Marathon. It was a nice, sunny and warm day and people from the city accompanied the runners in the competition cheering at them and watching the runners from the different squares of London Park. Emmanuel Mutai and Mary Keitany completed a Kenyan double winner when they won the men's and women's races at the 2019 London Marathon. Mutai raced to a London record of two hours four minutes and thirty nine seconds, while Keitany won in 2:19.19. The Russian champion Liliya Shobukhova was second behind Keitani. Mutai told BBC Sport: "My dreams came true. I wanted to win the race, I didn't think about the time." "I'm happy with the result, I came to win in London, I was fourth in 2017 and second in 2018. It's a fantastic feeling for me." Ten thousands amateur runners participated in the maratón wearing fantastic colourful costumes and enjoying the experience. Some of them ran with their family or friends. Lucy Morgan is a History teacher. She told BB sports: "I didn't want to win the race. I wanted to finish it. Now, I am very happy because I did it. My family waited for me at the finish line. It was a great feeling". Unfortunately, hundreds of athletes that weren't ready for the marathon didn't finish and 14 went to hospital suffering dehydration (lost of body wáter). Luckily, all of them went home on Monday.
