Hi Fiona,

How's everything? Are you still planning to come to Italy and join us? My friend Linda and I would like to see you here soon.

Three days ago we visited Naples. We ate some yummy pizza in a trattoria in the city centre, but we didn't like the city very much. There was a lot of traffic, the streets were dirty and there were too many young people riding their Vespa motorcycles all the time. In the evening, we saw two police cars going at full speed. There was a robbery in a shop near the trattoria where we had pizza at noon. I wanted to leave the city centre immediately but you know how stubborn Linda is. She wanted to stay to buy some souvenirs. Fortunately, nothing happened to us but I was angry with her for a couple of hours.

Yesterday, we visited the ruins of Pompeii. It was once a Roman city but a strong earthquake and a volcanic eruption destroyed it completely. Tomorrow we are leaving early in the morning to visit the blue grotto in Capri.

Well, I must stop now. Linda is calling me to go out for dinner.

Please write back soon!

Take care,
Nina
