

How Can We Be Prepared for An Environmental Emergency?

Analyze the pictures and answer the question.

Academic and Educational Environment

Social Practice of the Language

To produce instructions to prepare for an environmental emergency

Achievements

- Select and review instruction sheets.
- Read and understand instruction sheets.
- Write instructions.
- Edit instruction sheets.

Product: Poster with Instructions

1 Read. Use the words from the box to label the examples.

chemical and oils spills radiation exposure severe weather natural disasters

Environmental Emergencies

Environmental emergencies can happen anywhere at any time and they can have terrible consequences for individuals and communities such as injuries, diseases, or even death. Some examples of environmental emergencies are:

2 Share your answers to the following questions with your class.

- Have you ever been in an environmental emergency?
- What was it?
- What did you do to avoid injuries?

Time to Shine!

- Who do you have to call to report an environmental emergency?

3 Work in teams. Write possible consequences for human beings.

Environmental Emergency

Consequences

Natural disasters

Severe weather

Chemical and oil spills

Radiation exposure

Reader's Book

Read pages 33-36 from the Reader's Book.

Introduce students to the theme of the unit and have them connect it with their personal experience.