READING COMPREHENSION

A Day in the Life of an Electrician

by Chris Duggan, electrician

I like to think my day consists of five sections, with three clients in the morning and two in the afternoon. As a reactive electrician, most of my work involves fault finding and lighting, and I aim to resolve all issues within two hours. I'm out on the road between eight a.m. and five p.m., and I usually just eat lunch on the go.

I love that I get to do so many different jobs in a day. It keeps my brain sharp and stops me from getting bored – I'd go crazy if I was trapped in an office all the time. There's a huge sense of accomplishment that comes with solving a difficult, technically challenging electrical problem, and it's great when the client is happy. I do get a bit sick of the relentless traffic I encounter driving round London, but other than that there's nothing I don't like about my job.

www.aspect.co.uk

Read the text three times and then asnwer the next questions :

Quelle est la profession de Chris ?

Combien de clients en moyenne a-t-il par jour ?

Quels sont ses horaires de travail ?

Dans quellle ville travaille-t-il ?

Qu'apprécie-t-il dans ce travail ? Pourquoi ?

LIVEWORKSHEETS