Write the name of the correct type of slide.

1. _____ Use a title slide at the beginning of your presentation to introduce your topic.
2. _____ Separates different sections of the same presentation.
3. _____ Use this slide layout to show two columns of text and graphic content.
4. _____ Similar to the Two Content slide layout, but this slide type also includes a heading text box over each type of content. Use this type of slide layout to compare two types of the same content type (for example, two different charts).
5. _____ The default slide layout and the most commonly used slide layout
6. _____ A blank slide layout is often used when a picture or other graphic object needs no further information.
7. _____ Contains two columns for text and content. The left column contains placeholders for text. The right column contains placeholders for images and illustrations.
8. _____ Use this slide layout if you want to place only a title on the page, rather than a title and subtitle. The area below the title is blank so that other content (such as clip art, WordArt, pictures, or charts) can be added as needed.
9. _____ This slide layout is similar to the Content with Caption slide layout. The left side contains a placeholder for text and the right side contains a placeholder for a picture that is stored on your computer or cloud account.
