

Present simple, present progressive, future, past simple, past progressive

Avi _____ (work) as a taxi driver in Haifa. He _____ (love) to talk while he is driving. Last Monday night I _____ (go) for a ride with Avi. He _____ (not usually work) the night shift, but he was working that night because he needed the extra money. While we _____ (ride) through Haifa, he _____ (not stop) talking "People _____ (get) very angry when they _____ (call) and there are no taxis available" he told me. He _____ (explain) that the Government _____ (give out) more than 1,000 new taxi licenses next year and that each license _____ (cost) about 80,000 $. At 3 a.m. Avi _____ (pick up) two boys from the train station and _____ (take) them to their hotel. Then Avi _____ (go) home to sleep. In the morning he _____ (go back) to work. "I _____ (work) very hard" he says. "Every extra hour on the road _____ (mean) more money in my pocket".

Peter and Dan _____ (work) with the ambulance services. Three times a week, they _____ (learn) about treating people who have been in accidents. Yesterday, they _____ (not study) in class because there was an accident and they _____ (have) to help the paramedics. At the scene of the accident, they _____ (see) some people with injuries. One man _____ (lie) on the road while a boy _____ (sit) on the sidewalk near him. They _____ (try) to help but _____ (not know) what to do. The paramedics _____ (tell) them to watch and learn so the next time, they _____ (treat) the people themselves.