

Use the Modal Verbs: May/Might/Could to fill in the blanks in the story.

Amanda and Amy are twins and best friends. They love to go swimming, skiing, hiking and many other outdoor activities in the summer. "We _____ even get to go to the beach next week! The weather is supposed to be amazing", Amy shouted excitedly. Amanda shook her head and frowned, her friend was too optimistic. "Amy, the weather can change. We _____ not be able to go after all." She pointed at a single cloud outside and waved at it "I hope it goes away, but we _____ have to find other things to do during the summer holiday. We need to be ready if anything changes."

The girls dream of what they _____ do if they are able to go to the beach. "Oh! We _____ build a sand castle, and swim, and even snorkel", said Amy. Amanda smiled and replied, "and we also _____ be able to see dolphins too! They migrate here for the summer." The girls giggle and close their eyes, imagining their future trip. "We _____ even be able to get ice cream every day, but dad will probably say no." The girls dreamt of the sun, the water, the waves and everything in between. "Whatever happens, we will have fun. If it rains, we _____ be able to go to the arcade. Mom likes it there too." Amy nodded and thought of other things the girls _____ do instead of swimming. "Okay, Amanda. Let's go to sleep and hope the weather is clear."
