

p. 86-87

1. My grandmother's dinner table has great [addiction / sentimental value / word of mouth value]. It reminds me of her and even makes food taste better.
2. Exercise is healthy if you don't [transform / resist / overdo] it.
3. You will recognise the shop assistants by the shop's [logo / spree / browse] on their T-shirts.
4. I think I have a(n) [shopaholic / addiction / transformation] to chocolate. I can't stop eating it.
5. I tried to [resist / browse / regret] having that mouth-watering chocolate cake, but I just couldn't.
6. I can't buy a new car. I'm [transformed / broke / broken].
7. The new flat we bought cost [an arm and a leg / a leg and a finger / a tooth and a nose].
8. I'm not paying $199 for that smartphone. That's a(n) [addiction / rip-off / a little short]. I can buy the exact same phone at another shop for $120.
9. I'm not going there again. The food cost a(n) [logo / addiction / fortune].
10. They [transformed / resisted / regretted] the old factory into a modern library.
11. Laura spends a lot of money buying new things. I think she's a(n) [shopping spree / shopaholic / alcoholic].
12. After Alice won $200 at the tennis tournament, she went on a(n) [shopping spree / overdo / fortune] buying shoes, scarves, a jacket and a trendy dress.
13. [By the way / Moreover / However], have you seen Robert anywhere?

14. I [resist / regret / browse] not visiting Madame Tussaud's Museum while I was in London.

15. When I returned the item to the shop, they gave me a [shoelace / fortune / voucher] to use for future purchases instead of refunding my money in cash.

16. We like walking down the high street just to do a bit of window [browsing / shopping / buying].

17. Sorry, can you lend me some money? I'm a little [short / tall / small].

18. This fast food restaurant is open [7/24 – 24/7 – 7/7] and I often come here when I finish work late at night.

19. I'm going to [shop around / make a fortune / cost an arm and a leg] before I buy a laptop.

20. I spent a while [overdoing / costing / browsing] through the shop before I found the perfect tie to go with my suit.