

We use to do, to buy, to start, etc. (to + infinitive) after some verbs, e.g.:

want	decide
agree	promise
forget	offer	+ to + INFINITIVE
hope	plan
arrange	try

learn lend play do

start book help get go

She agreed to him some money.

He forgot to the tickets.

I'm hoping to a new bike soon.

I've arranged to tennis tonight.

They've decided to a new company.

You promised to me.

She offered to the washing-up.

We're planning to away this weekend.

He's trying to French.

Put the verbs in brackets () into these sentences. Use an infinitive to + infinitive

I'm sorry I forgot (phone) you yesterday. I was very busy.

She didn't want (wait) any longer, so she left.

When are you planning (eat) tonight?

I'm afraid I've forgotten (bring) the map.

My friend didn't want let me drive her car.

They plan (receive) the letter next week.

She didn't want (reply) because she didn't know what to say.