Topic: The Importance of Janitorial Staff

- They decontaminate an area.
- They clean everything
- They help students

Introduction

Did you ever think about how interesting and important janitors are? They decontaminate their work stations, clean everything, and they even have opportunities to help the students.

First paragraph

The janitors remove infectious viruses and bacteria from our environment. They spray and wipe surfaces with chemicals to destroy those kinds of things. That makes the office, class room, hospital room, or wherever they are working, healthy and safe.

Second Paragraph

They have different jobs to do that make everything spic and span. They use a bucket of water and cloths and cleaning agents, to wash desks, tables, and chairs. They remove garbage and empty them into a dumpster to avoid vectors and germs that carry diseases. Janitors sweep off the floors then mop the floors until they are shiny and smelling right.

Third Paragraph

People know how much Janitors help. But they are really needed at a school. They help little children who have biological accidents or did not make it to the bathroom in time. If a student is sick and vomits, janitors help them clean up.

Conclusion

Janitors are hard workers who do good work sometimes. Many people who talk with them will hear about their jobs and how well they sanitize everyday.
