

TEXT 2 A School DayHuda

My name is Huda and I go to a girls' school in Oman. I usually wake up at 6am and arrive at school at 7:45am. The school is very close to my house, so I am able to walk there every day.

The first period starts at 8am. The lessons last forty-five minutes, which is great because I can stay focused for the entire lesson. During the day we have two short breaks of around 20 minutes where we can eat a snack and rest between periods.

In Oman, the school timetable becomes shorter during the holy month of Ramadan. We also do not attend school during the summer, which are the hottest months.

Jane

Hi. I'm Jane and I go to school in the United States. The school days here can feel very long because they start early and finish late.

I start school at 8am. Some days I have six one-hour classes, while on other days I have four ninety-minute classes.

After the ninety-minute classes all students get a ten-minute break. In the breaks, we can play or relax and prepare for our next period. There is also a lunch hour at 12pm every day. I usually make sandwiches at home and bring them to school.

On Tuesdays, after school ends at 4pm, I have field hockey practice with my friends for the school team. The practice can last between sixty to ninety minutes. I love playing hockey, so I always look forward to Tuesdays.

Jane plays field hockey every Tuesday
