

Traits For Protection (Part 1: Taught by Teacher)

Match the animals with the right pictures.

Clown Fish

Horned lizard

Spitting cobra

Sea anemones

Gila monster

Reticulated glass frog

Frilled lizards

Match the description with right animal.

Clown fish

shoot blood out of their eyes to scare away predators.

Snakes and spiders

open their frills to scare away predators.

Horned lizards

live among the tentacles of poisonous sea anemone.

Insects and amphibians

sting animals with their tentacles to kill and eat them.

Spitting cobra	shoots venom at the eyes to blind its attacker.
Frilled lizards	have poison or venom that is used when in danger.
Sea anemones	have intense colors to warn other animals that they are poisonous and toxic.
Gila monsters	protect their babies with ninja moves.
Reticulated glass frogs	are venomous lizards with yellow and black colors.